Tensor Coil Workshop David Garroway

Aether waves surrounding us are both imploding and expanding while also accelerating or decelerating in a golden mean ratio. A tensor coil causes tension in the aetheric field around us thereby focusing it inward. Tensor math describes the curves of the coils which, in one aspect or another incorporate or change according to the golden mean ratio. The term tensor coil was first used in the 50s when Slim Spurling first made his copper coil that attracted radiant energy and gave off radiant energy.

A simple coil can be just a copper hoop with copper wire wrapped around it. This will capture some energy. When placed in water more light is pulled in and reflections become brighter. They also have properties that stimulate plant growth and healing of wounds and illnesses in people.

The Garroway coil, may be the most efficient at radiant energy capture to date. This coil resonates with all 4 types of waves permeating the aether. This coil also incorporates the acceleration and deceleration occurring within the spiraling waves. These are micro twists and rotations imparted to the coil while making them, which are not visible to the eye once the coil is complete.

This workshop will focus on the parameters and construction techniques to make your own tensors. In addition to actually constructing coils, premade coils will be passed around so you can feel the energy developed for yourself!
